BEACH LIFE

Like many Australians, I love sport. I surf of course, and I skateboard a lot. I'm in a grass hockey team and a cricket team. And I do surf lifesaving (see top photo, p.12). We learn how to help people who get into trouble in the ocean. I started lifesaving when I was seven, for two years. Then I started again last year.

We practise on Sunday mornings. We learn first-aid techniques and CPR, when you press on a person's heart after they have a cardiac arrest. And we learn how to get a person out of the water. We use surfboards to get to accidents quickly, and to help bring people back to the beach. When I'm older, I'd like to study medicine, or sports science, so lifesaving is good experience. And you spend lots of time on the beach!

L1 Hi! My name is Harvey, and I'm from Perth, Western Australia.
