	I agree because...	I disagree because...
Teenagers cannot understand what love is.	They're too young.	Teenagers can have feelings too. It's not a question of age.
Love at first sight doesn't exist.	It takes some time to know each other.	Two people can fall in love suddenly for no reason, like Romeo and Juliet.
Eternal love exists.	Some people love each other until they die.	People can change. Feelings can change, too.
Teenagers should be allowed to love the person they want.	No one else can change what we feel. Parents mustn't decide entirely. I don't care what other people will say.	It's very important to know what parents think because they care for us.
