

Times Square, Manhattan

This photo shows a road which is called Times Square, one of the most famous landmarks of New York. I suppose this picture was taken in the evening.

In the foreground, we can see a lot of people who are walking up the street. It's very crowded. I guess some are shopping and having a good time. The tourists must be so impressed to be there. They are surrounded by the tallest skyscrapers which are full of signs, digital screens with videos and lights.

Along the street, you can find many restaurants, pubs, or shops. This is the place to be !

I think that New York is a beautiful city, with lots of different people. There are so many things to do and see, like museums, parks, monuments, Broadway shows ...What I like the most is the live and let-live attitude. They are always willing to help you. However, there are too many stressed people, too much noise and violence in some areas and it makes me scared. It is also very polluted. Overall, I wouldn't like to live there but I wish I could go on a trip once in my life !