

Rosa Parks on the Bus (1955)

Bus Driver: Excuse me. The white section is full. You need to give your seat to this passenger.

White Passenger: Yes, I want to sit down. Please move.

Rosa Parks: No, I'm sorry. I don't think I should have to move.

White Passenger: What? That's the law! You must give me your seat.

Bus Driver: If you don't stand up, I'll call the police.

Rosa Parks: You can call them. I am tired of being treated unfairly.

(A few minutes later, two police officers arrive.)

Police Officer 1: Are you Rosa Parks?

Rosa Parks: Yes, I am.

Police Officer 2: The bus driver says you refused to give up your seat.

Rosa Parks: That's correct.

Police Officer 1: Do you understand that you are breaking the law?

Rosa Parks: I understand the law, but I believe it is unjust.

Police Officer 2: If you do not move, we will have to arrest you.

Rosa Parks: You may do that.

Bus Driver: She refused to obey the rules.

White Passenger: This is unbelievable!

Police Officer 1: Mrs. Parks, please come with us.

Rosa Parks: One day, things will change.
